The book is divided into five sections, each of which focuses on a different aspect of the girls' lives. The first section, "Breaking Barriers," features stories of girls who have overcome challenges and adversity to achieve their goals. The second section, "Leading the Way," profiles girls who are using their leadership skills to make a positive impact in their communities. The third section, "Making a Difference," highlights girls who are working to solve some of the world's most pressing problems. The fourth section, "Inspiring Others," features stories of girls who are using their voices and platforms to inspire others to follow their dreams. And the fifth section, "The Future is Female," provides a glimpse into the future of female leadership, with stories of girls who are poised to make a difference in the world.

The girls profiled in Girls Who Run The World are all unique, but they share a common passion for making a difference in the world. They are all role models for young women everywhere, and their stories are sure to inspire you to follow your dreams and make your own mark on the world.

Meet some of the girls who run the world:

- Malala Yousafzai, a Pakistani activist who was shot by the Taliban for speaking out in favor of education for girls
- Greta Thunberg, a Swedish environmental activist who has inspired millions of young people to take action on climate change
- Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez, the youngest woman ever elected to Congress, who is fighting for economic and social justice
- Michelle Obama, a former First Lady of the United States who is now working to empower girls and young women around the world
- Beyoncé, a singer, songwriter, and actress who uses her platform to speak out against injustice and empower women

Girls Who Run The World is a must-read for anyone who wants to be inspired by the power of young women. These girls are changing the world, and their stories will show you that anything is possible if you have the courage to follow your dreams.
